

THE Celtic Way FOR FACULTY

Via Divina: The Celtic Way for Faculty – June 24 to July 23

In the Celtic tradition of Christianity, pilgrims didn't have a definite destination. They only knew and trusted the God who called them as they headed out. This could be a description of the past year which has felt like a time of wandering for many people. We long for some anchor in this uncertainty.

This summer InterVarsity Faculty Ministry is offering an opportunity to find that anchor during Via Divina: The Celtic Way for Faculty. Take time each week from June 24 to July 23 to engage with the Triune God—the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—in new ways as we explore the roots and branches of the biblical Christianity practiced by early Celtic followers of Jesus. We invite faculty, students, administrators, ministry partners, and all those who love faculty to join in this journey together.

EIGHT WALKS

Each audio-guided excursion explores a theme of Celtic spirituality using the story of a Celtic saint, scripture reflection, sensory activities, and prayer.

DEBRIEF GROUPS

To process your experience, you're encouraged to debrief with others in small groups at a pace that matches the timing of your overall pilgrimage.

VISIO DIVINA

Before every walk, you'll enter into a session's theme by contemplating a piece of original artwork created by InterVarsity staff Bette Dickinson.

AND MORE...

There will also be opportunities to participate in webinars, spiritual direction, and other creative activities to help you recognize and reflect upon the sacred in the everyday.
